

Nitrogen-Containing Heterocyclic Compounds: Synthesis, Method Development, Study of Physical-Chemical Properties and Reactivity

The PhD thesis will be focused on the synthesis of nitrogen-containing heterocyclic compounds with the potential biological relevance or the development of novel synthetic methods. The prepared compounds will be studied with regard to physical-chemical properties, reactivity, and potential biological activity.